Bugaboo footmuff vs high performance

Show 10 20 50 per page Positive review topAll positive reviews Maiken O.5.0 out of 5 stars Owner ofBugaboo in a cold climate = take the footmuff! Reviewed in the US on March 18, 2016 If you buy the Bugaboo and happen to live in a place with a winter season, this is a must buy! We used it over and over again this winter for our 7 month old daughter and it was great. We got a lot of jealous looks from parents trying to cover their little ones in blankets and what you have, while our daughter just curled up (sleeping!) in her little hot cocoon. We have the crummy above the top of the frame And the canopy of the sun attached at the same time, and it is possible. The canopy looks slightly bulky going past the asylum, but it is possible, and the zipper can withstand it. It comes with a winter cassava and slightly thinner spring cassava and right now we are using the spring craze, because some days are still cold and windy. In addition, this manifo will be used for every winter until we need a stroller that could be until it is 3 years old. Accepting these costs is part of having a Bugaboo - but it's worth it! View all the details Keep your baby warm and protected Designed to keep your baby warm and welcoming on colder days, the Bugaboo high-performance footmuff is an indispensable winter stroller accessory, offering ideal temperature and humidity control. Made from high-quality, soft and breathable materials, it will always keep your child protected from rain, wind and snow. It also features a down-filled cover and an additional insert filled down for extra warmth. Easy to assemble and adjustable The top cover can be partially opened or completely removed for ideal temperature regulation. The top cover and built-in hood are both with an adjustable traction cable, so that it stays in place and helps protect the child from top to toe. MAIN FEATURES: Made from high-quality, soft and breathable fabrics It offers ideal temperature and humidity control The lid filled down and the additional insert filled down offer extra warmth Built-in hood with an adjustable traction cable for optimal fit and child protection The top cover is detachable (you can also use it as a seat lining) extra inside , prevent the footrest from getting dirty when the child has dirty shoes on It can be opened from both sides (top and bottom), thanks to the waterproof two-handed zipper Weatherproof coating Easy to attach to the stroller seat and perfect fit The harness, for an always safe guide Washable in the washing machine (see product label for detailed instructions) COMPATIBILITY: Compatible with all Bugaboo strollers (except bugaboo ant) Note : This topic is to discuss strollers. I see 2 different types on the Sites of John Lewis and Bugaboo:The high performance: www.bugaboo.com/GB/en_GB/strollers/accessories/detail/bugaboo-high-performance-footmuffand the universal: www.bugaboo.com/GB/en_GB/strollers/accessories/detail/bugaboo-footmuffThey both look at me as if it only fits the stroller as they have the shape of the chair. What about the portacot? The baby is due in 4 weeks, so he will still be in portocot at least half the winter. Can anyone tell me which of these two works with both the hose and the stroller?? Thank you!! OP posts: | Artandco Mon 29-Jun-15 18:42:58 Both work only with head office. In carrycot mode just add blankets as they will not fall from HelloAmBaymax Mon 29-Jun-15 18:43:31 The footmuff is for the seat unit. The crib has a cover and is completely closed, so just wrap the baby or put blankets on top of the baby, under the top cover. SueV14 Mon 29-Jun-15 18:58:12 Ok, thank you Art and Hello! All right.. does this mean I need to get smth as a winter/general dress for the baby if I don't want to wrap it in 100 layers of clothes and blankets? Any advice on such winter packages that I could use with the bike rack? And another question: how long do children fit into these feet? I don't need to have it if I can only use it for 1/2 season, they are super expensive! How old can it be used? OP posts: | Artandco Lun 29-Jun-15 21:20:04 They are of good size, an average 3-4 years could still adapt if necessary. They bend at the front for a smaller age. And decompress so you can take off the top and leave the bottom when warmerTbh a baby in the portacot should only feel good in babygrow/vest and hot cardigan. Add hat/ankle boots and gloves as needed. Then wrap the baby in a thin blanket and add a thick one. So when you go into the house you can just take off the blankets so that it doesn't overheat Look at an insect in a carpet if you want a blanket with your feet (it can also use in slingshots and car seat) SueV14 Mon 29-Jun-15 21:26:11 Thank you Art! Very useful! OP posts: | LittleBairn Mar 30-Jun-15 6:45:14 pm sue this works in the bugaboo www.mothercare.com/Quinny-From-Birth-Inlay-for-Buzz-and-Zapp-Xtra-Pushchairs---Cream/565387.default.pd.htmlBut a warm snow costume under the cover of the pram will also work, the bugaboo has a deep slit compared to most providing shelter from time. i've got the universal footmuff is often and hot and unless you're in the highlands I can't see the need for the high-performance one. Becky2208 Tuesday 30-Jun-15 20:00:11 I found a really good star wrap for use in the cot instead of blankets - they are great because you just lift the baby out of the crib in the car seat without discarding the blankets. They are also great to use in a Tuppenceandcrumble.com/shop/star_wraps. Shopachocaholic Lun 06-Jul-15 20:28:13 According to the Stellar Envelope Tuppence & Crumble. It is easy to open inside (e.g. the mail) or inside the car without disturbing them when they have fallen asleep. I found trying to shake my arms in a snow costume a nightmare when they were newborns. I loved them so much that I bought the next size every time until DS could walk. Mrsderekshepard Lun 06-Jul-15 20:31:01 I used the footrest in the crib I just laid it on the bottom and popped baby on the beautiful and cozy side Shopachocaholic Mon 06-Jul-15 21:20:37 Another option for the carrier is to buy an aircraft carrier seat casing/car like the Kaiser Coo Coon (sr_1_1?ie=UTF8&qid=1436213485&sr=B-1&keywords=Kaiser+co+coon). I live in Germany and Kaiser wrappers/footmuffs are very popular in Munich where I live as if it often drops to minus 20 in winter. I haven't used it yet but it gets 4.5 stars from 75 reviews on the German Amazon site. It is often, looks of excellent quality and looks welcoming. Unlike Tuppence & Crumble casings, it has holes in the back for car seat harnesses. The only problem people have mentioned is that the foot bag is just as small. Most people said they just put the baby without any other outerwear and then opened it when it's indoors. I also own the Bugaboo High Performance footmuff. It is very expensive but Bugaboo retains its value when resold. eBay often has some second-hand one once autumn starts to begin. KateHorsman Tuesday 07-Jul-15 18:35:53 I loved the wheelchair suits when Lily was little because they were tight around her neck and head, so even better than a footmuff. We have the universal and it was great now that it's a bit bigger because it's so welcoming.
